In 2019, our government will spend more money paying interest on the national debt than we currently spend defending the United States of America.

It's time we turn over a new LEAF.

I want your input on this part of the LEAF Plan.

Grade our current direction and my proposed plan from A (solid plan) to F (failing plan).

Current Direction

- No long-range shipbuilding or aviation plans
- Bloated federal agencies marked with red tape
- Cap-and-trade energy tax
- Government healthcare
- Slow and inefficient VA process
- Continued unsustainable growth in federal budget

Randy's Effective Plan

- Long-range strategic defense planning
- Interagency reform
- Energy independence through New Manhattan Project

TURNING A NEW LEAF IN GOVERNMENT

In the last year the federal deficit grew to $1.4 trillion—the highest amount in history. Randy believes we need to cut up the national credit card and get government back to doing what it was intended to do.

RANDY'S PLAN FOR EFFECTIVE GOVERNMENT:

- Place priority on long-range defense planning by demanding shipbuilding and aviation plans as required by law.
- Reform how agencies work together to foster government efficiency. HR 2207
- Spur innovation by introducing New Manhattan Project for Energy Independence and voting against cap-and-trade energy tax. HR 513
- Foster new choices in healthcare and coverage for pre-existing conditions, not rationing through government healthcare.
- Streamline bureaucracy to make sure veterans get the benefits promised to them.
- Implement the "414 Plan" to cut bureaucracy and unnecessary regulation in order to build roads and bridges in 414 days like the replacement for the Minnesota bridge collapse.

It's time for EFFECTIVE government.
